Cultivating Side Whiskers

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL.

The innecent little girls of hair over the ears, the forward question mark art, plastered in place with a little ab of bandoline, all seem simple and armless enough, but after a few ounths of that "earless" hair aressing the started out to go to Neverland. He work took some scant food with him, and off he went. He walked and walked all day long, and when night came he can accomplished artistically without to accomplished artistically without to their rushing must be way from the ears.

Many girls have weigh bitter tears for the growth of hair in front of the rearrest and have resorted to a seem good fairy hasn't found him.

depilatory, or even shaving, to remove it. After the harm is done, it will take only a persistent training by welling the hair and brushing it back ting the hair and brushing it back smoothly two or three times a day to bring it back to its eld way of behaving, then when the hair is dressed, a wide ribbon tied tightly around the head will help keep the wayward locks in place, and naturally in due course of time the hair will grow smoothly away from the face.

The unfortunate condition of the hair growing low down on the back of the neek is caused by continually brushing the hair downward and wearing it low in the back. The woman who always wears her hair on the top of her head and brushes it up

Nothing looks so unity as a growth of hair either in front of the cars or down the back of the neck. Therefore, the manner of brushing the hair is of great importance. Two brushes are better than one. The hair should be vigorously brushed just in the way you would like it to grow. Avoid the talse and undesirable growths of hair, which are the rewards of neglect.

Remember: When you are a seeker offer beauty do not sacrifice your per-manent good looks for a temporary bizarre effect.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

T. AND A. H.—it is not advis-to wear the hair one way for a long period. Why don't you try parting your hair on the side or in the middle. There are many pretty ways of dressing the hair this way. the iniddle. There are many pretty ways of dressing the hair this way. Massage your scale and clip the ends of your hair if they are split. The massage will remedy the dryness and keep the hair from breaking and falling. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope, I shall gladly send you the treatment for removing black-heids.

MILDRED F.—Do not use dry shampoos too often They fill up the pores of the scalp and cause dandrum and make the hair fall. Once in a widle will not harm the hair. Here is a good formula: Take equal parts of orris root and cornineal. Mila thoroughly. Rub it through the hair into the scalp. Allow it to remain on over night, then brush out. If your hair is oily, shampoo it about every two weeks, Don't use the dry shampoo unless you cannot shampoo your hair.

The T. D. C. C.

[Copyright, 1914, by Lillian Russell.]
Have you given a thought to the after-effects of wearing the hair forward over the ears for one whole year? Nothing is more amenable to training than the hair, and the forward combing and brushing has had a decided tendency to cause new hair to grow in front of the ears.

Of course, they were never noticed while the fashion remained, but now the style is changed for all fashionable hair is to be combed back stway from the face and ears, disclosing the round, smooth cheeks, many of which, alas! have cultivated a growth of fine side whiseers.

My Dear Girls and Boys:

The news has just come to your editor that a T. D. C. needal was found a snort time ago somewhere in front of the Academy of Music, in this city, and the finder is very anxious that the owner should have his or her property. So won't you let me know if you hear of a member that has lost one, so that we may return it? If they will write or send to my office I will see that the medal is returned to the proper person. I know how dreadfully you feel when you lose anything, and also how happy it makes you to find it again, so let's try and find the unhappy member who is without his medal.

JOHN WILLIAM GIBSON.
Peaks Turnout, Va.

The wedding was planned as a complete surph be by the young couple, who soon after twilight metered to Blountville with a party of friends, where the services of Rev. J. L. Prater, of the Methodist church, were engaged to perform the ceremony.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Cox, of Bristol, and a nephew of General James Cox, of Johnson City, and is very popular with the younger social set in the city.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dillard, of Brooklyn, who are well known here. She is a grand-daughter of Captain Harvey Wood, of Brooklyn, and a niece of Mrs. S. G. Harriss, of Johnson Street, with whom she has been spending the summer.

Mr. Cox and his young bride are now Mt. "Arbor Vitae," the country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cox, at Thomas's Bridge.

Steel—Critcher.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Lynchburg, Va., July 23.—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Reveley here yesterday afternoon their niece, Miss Monica Belle Critcher, of this city, was married to William H. Steele, of Charleston, W. Va. The officiating minister was Rev. R. M. Chandler, pastor of Centenary Methodist Cleurch. The bride has taught in the public schools of Charleston. After a Northern bridal tour, Mr. and Mrs. Steele will be at home in Charleston, where he is employed as a civil engineer.

Massey—May.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Charlottesville, Va., July 23.—Among the thousand and odd women registered at the University of Virginia Summer School was Miss Stevie Emma May, of Nelson County. She is no longer, there, and the excellent science of pedagogics has lost one of its most accomplished votaries. Julian Benrett Massie, a promising young attorney of Nelson County, argued unto himself that there could be no good reason why he should not interrupt her hard and unromantic studies at the historic university, and now he has borne her away. To-day, at the parsonage of the High Street flaptist Church, they were united in marriage by the Rev. Henry W. Battle, D. D. The only attendant was Miss Ruth Anderson, intimate friend and roommate of the bride, who was kept in profound ignorance of the coming event until she saw her friends take their places before the minister.

The groom is a graduate of the law school of Richmond College, has attended the University of Virginia, and is a member of hite Virginia bar. He is the son of the Rev. P. P. Massie, an honored Baptist minister. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. May, of Nelson County.
